Richstone Properties have built their reputation on creating unique, luxury residential properties in exclusive, London locations. With its seven bedrooms and five bathrooms, this magnificent detached, new build residence adjacent to Richmond Park is no exception.

From the beginning, Trans-European Stone provided technical advice to ensure the stonework was not only aesthetically pleasing, but also practical and buildable. Our stone designer also provided working drawings and factory cutting sheets for every element of the stonework, from the plinths to the copings and including the all-important portico.

Richstone's innovative use of Belgian Blue limestone enhances the development and contributes to the classic exterior of this sumptuous new home.

“Trans-European Stone were really helpful on this project. Their stonework knowledge and technical advice saved a lot of time.”
